AUDIENCE

Master presenter Gerald Pauschmann presents his 2-hour safety workshop on how to manage robbery related risks.

This session provides local government library staff, waste services, front counter/reception staff and art gallery and information/community centre staff with tips on how best to manage robbery related risks and manage their own health, safety and well-being and that of others around them

“Was fantastic training. I will use the techniques that I learnt in my day to day working environment. I would recommend this course to anyone and everyone - extremely beneficial” – Greg Shaw, Banana Shire Council.

COURSE DETAILS

Most of us never expect to be caught up in an armed robbery, but nowadays if you work in an industry that is vulnerable to such risks, being prepared in this situation can help to minimise risks and increase your personal safety and that of your colleagues.

Any business activity handling cash and valuables, whether large or small, is at risk of armed robbery. It is essential that effective management systems are in place to minimise the risk and the potential threat to the safety and wellbeing of workers and members of the public. For further details, please see updated Workplace Health and Safety Queensland’s Cash in Transit Code of Practice 2011, Item 4 Training and Supervision.

SHORT COURSE TOPICS

- Become familiar with how to manage robbery related risks
- Learn important aspects of safe behaviour during a robbery
- Learn how victim injury and victim behaviour can be linked to each other identifying certain aspects about the crime
- Manage our own health, safety and well-being.

A 20 minute Armed Robbery Safety Awareness video will form part of this 2-hour workshop.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

By the end of this course, participants will have an increased understanding of how to protect themselves and others in the event of an armed robbery incident.

Duration and Location

Our standard structure for this course is 2-hours. Council may opt to have 3 x 2 hour sessions delivered within the one day, covering up to 60 staff. Our program can be delivered in any metropolitan or regional area throughout the country
